'India a bright spot in zinc consumption amidst recession'

Ashishhek Law
New Delhi

Zinc prices are yet to rebound and are expected to be in the $2,800-3,000 per tonne range as economic slowdown parameters deepens in Europe, concerns over production cuts in China and inflation worries in the USA, says Arun Mishra, CEO, Hindustan Zinc Ltd.

London Metal Exchange stock positions are at their lowest in recent times and production cuts have happened across global majors. LME stocks in April was around 45,000 tonnes as against 1,40,000 tonnes in the same period last year.

Similarly the stocks at SHFE warehouses (Shanghai Futures Exchange) were at 97,000 tonnes in the beginning of April this year as against 1,75,000 tonnes during March-ended 2022. These are multi-decade low numbers, says Mishra.

"Though the last quarter (January-March) started off on an optimistic note with — is expected to see demand grow at 4-5 per cent; with upcoming elections leading to a threat on infra projects.

Global consumption of zinc fell over 3 per cent in 2022 with China's construction sector yet to gain the requisite momentum.

Smelter bottlenecks are said to have caused a supply deficit of 300,000 tonnes in 2022 and around 1,50,000 tonnes in 2023, as per analysis of the International Lead and Zinc Study Group.

Analysts say, a sharp rise in annual benchmark smelter processing fee could incentivise a turnaround in the metal production. However, the scale of rebound, depends particularly on power availability in Europe and China. "India is expected to fare better in terms of demand. It is like a bright spot amidst global recessionary pressures," Mishra said.

According to him, the company is also in discussion with the Centre and State governments to open up new mines in Rajasthan and Gujarat for auctions.

CONSUMPTION PATTERNS
Hindustan Zinc expects global demand to grow in the 2.5 per cent range, at most 3 per cent, India which is a "bright spot" at the moment
